Reportable political donation declaration

Tasmanian Electoral Commission

Electoral Disclosure and Funding Act 2023 section 49

What is a reportable political donation?

A reportable political donation is a political donation of $1,000 or more. This may be a single political donation to an electoral participant or be multiple smaller political donations from the same donor to an electoral participant where the donations total $1,000 or more.

What must be submitted with this form?

A disclosure of all reportable political donations for the applicable period must be attached and lodged with this form. The Electoral Disclosure and Funding Act 2023 sets out specific requirements for what must be included in a disclosure. The Tasmanian Electoral Commission has provided a template that electoral participants may use, to help them to include all required information.

Who should use this form?

Any electoral participant who makes or receives a reportable political donation at any time must disclose the donation to the Tasmanian Electoral Commission. This includes: independent House of Assembly members or candidates, Legislative Council members or candidates, associated entities, third-party campaigners and significant political donors.

When to lodge this form

If a reportable political donation is made or received during an election campaign period, the donation must be disclosed and lodged with this form to the Commission within 7 days of the donation being made or received.

If a reportable political donation is made or received outside of an election campaign period, the donation must be disclosed and lodged with this form to the Commission within the next one-month period after the end of the calendar month in which the donation occurred.
