Recently I worked with youth members to promote the Triple J ONS event.

My focus is to advocate for real action on youth empowerment & mental health. In addition, I believe that community consultation and transparency are key factors in good decision making. I will uphold these principles in my role as Councillor.

I was elected onto BODC in 2014 and I find it challenging and rewarding. Using leadership skills forged in a background of community and policy development - BA Law, BA Juris, Dip. of Comm. Services work - I know that local government must show leadership on sustainable practises, as this results in a strong economy, a healthy environment and vibrant communities. Living in St Marys since 2007, I remain an active community volunteer.

A vote for me is a vote for change. In each and every election, it's your rights, your freedoms, your interests that are on the ballot. I'm a forward thinker and believe in empowering everyone in the community in the decision making process. Key areas I want changed are zero rates for pensioners; a new swimming pool at St Helens; introduction of a solar panel rebate purchase scheme; well planned and maintained dog parks and access to off lead beaches; community liaison officer; against the selling of land to foreign investors; amalgamation of councils with an inquiry into the roles of staff.

I am also the coordinator of the school op shop and a life member of Little Athletics and St Helens Netball Association. With my young family, I escaped Melbourne in 1993 for the tranquillity of the N/E Highlands. Over the past 25 years I have become immersed in this beautiful place. Now married to retiring Clr Hannah Rubenach-Quinn, we have a 1 year old daughter. Having been self employed in the auto industry, working at St Marys District School, then disability support work, I have a broad understanding of community needs and down to earth skills to fulfil the role as Deputy Mayor and Councillor. A vote for me will ensure a common sense and fresh approach. I would love to be part of vibrant new team.
